The Highlands of Scotland

Gàidhealtachd na h-Alba

The Highlands of Scotland is renowned for its beauty, hospitality and culture.

The population of the Highlands is 238,060. We're home to the Cairngorms, Scotland's second National Park and the largest in the UK, and the UNESCO geopark in North West Sutherland. Inverness is the administrative and transport hub of the region - a city of some 63,000 inhabitants. It is fast growing and ambitious with direct air links to Amsterdam and London.

The Inverness Campus is home to one of the most ambitious projects in Scotland. It is a nationally and internationally significant location for business, research, education and a thriving life sciences community.

The Highland Council and partners signed a City-Region Deal worth £315 million delivering a range of exciting projects over 10 years, which is set to see Inverness and the Highlands become a region of digital and economic opportunity.

www.highland.gov.uk/cityregiondeal

The Inverness and Cromarty Firth area was also awarded Green Freeport status in January 2023, which is set to be transformational for the region, stimulating economic growth and prosperity.

Whilst the geography of the area is characterised by a vast and diverse landscape, the lifestyle is characterised by community and connection. So there's something different about life in the north of Scotland. Whether it's down to the diversity of that geography, an area rich in outdoor opportunities, a rich culture or the friendly welcome, the Highlands offer one of the most distinctive lifestyle choices available anywhere in Scotland. It is one of the most attractive places to live, work, play and do business in the world.
